

SIX NEW DIVORCE SUITS ARE BEGUN IN COUNTY COURTS

Other Miscellaneous Business Included Filing of Two Damage Suits

TWO BRISTOL CASES

Two Women Here Bring Actions Against Their Husbands

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 25.—Six new divorce suits have been started in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks County. Other miscellaneous business included the filing of two damage suits.

Anna B. Patrick, of Bristol township, has filed an action in divorce against her husband, George B. Patrick, of 6013 Tulip street, Philadelphia, charging cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in September, 1927.

Description is made as grounds for divorce in the suit brought by Ruth Hutchison, of Bristol, against Harry Hutchison, of 1113 Sutherland street, Pittsburgh. They were married October 28, 1926, in Virginia.

Alleging that she deserted him two years ago, after living together thirty-four years, Frank A. Burness, of Crofton, has filed an action in divorce against his wife, Anna May Burness, of Camden, N. J.

Birdie Lee Jaeger, of Oakford, has started divorce action against her husband, William R. Jaeger, of Langhorne, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married July 6, 1918, in Philadelphia.

Cruel and barbarous treatment is set forth as the grounds for divorce in the case of Emma T. Allbrook, of Bensalem township, a native of Doylestown, against Austin Allbrook. They were married on May 22, 1929, at Doylestown. The libel filed in the case sets forth that Allbrook threatened to kill his wife.

Ethel L. Haggerty, of 328 Roosevelt avenue, Bristol, has started divorce proceedings against her husband, Francis Haggerty, of 508 North 32d street, Philadelphia, on the grounds of desertion. They were married on March 26, 1921.

Damages aggregating $16,000 is asked in several suits brought by Albert D. Reading, Mrs. Anna M. Reading and their daughter, Miss Marie Reading, against Earl P. Gerhart. The plaintiffs are asking damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained in an automobile collision at the intersection of the Limekiln Road and the Upper State Road, near Chalfont, on December 24, 1928.

A Praecept in trespass has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas by Katherine Darlington and Hillborn Darlington, executor of the last will and testament of Kate S. Darlington, deceased, of Doylestown, against the Philadelphia Suburban Counties Gas and Electric Company. No statement of claim has been filed to date.

Best Minds of Financial District Confident Conditions Will Improve

ARE IN CONTROL NOW

Powerful Financial Giants Determined Not to Lose Their Heads

(Copyright, 1929, by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—"Steady!" That might well be set forth as the admonition of Wall Street today.

For it is along this line that the "best minds" in the financial district—the so-called "big shots"—are thinking.

Amid all the excitement, the tension, the nervous reaction and the flurry of wild rumors that have come in the wake of yesterday's 12,894,650-share market—the biggest in the history of the New York Stock Exchange—there is a coterie of powerful financial giants who are "holding their heads," determined not to allow the situation to get out of control.

International News Service has sounded these men out. They are not calling this a "crisis." They deplore the use of the word "panic" as a possibility in the situation. They see no signs of a "panic." They say: "Remember this: business conditions in this country are basically sound."

An emergency? Well—perhaps. But no crisis.

Thomas W. Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan and Company, discussed the situation quite calmly. He had just finished a conference with other big bankers. Darkness had long since descended over the towering structures of the financial district.

By William S. Neal
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Confident the gigantic business structure of the nation stands untouched by the New York Stock Market break and may even benefit through easier money, a half dozen proposals to prevent a recurrence of speculation orgies were being prepared for action in the Senate.

There will be no immediate investigation of the stock market crash, it appeared after leaders on the Senate Banking Committee declared that no good purpose could be served by inquiry now.

At the same time it was indicated strong demands will be made for a thorough consideration of the Federal Reserve Board's policies in the forthcoming regular session. With a view to applying brakes to the future speculation.

More drastic action was threatened in other quarters, based upon possible developments.

Declaring the stock market break should help agriculture by easing credit and boost prices, Senator Heflin (D) of Alabama, announced he would launch a movement in the Senate to close the cotton and grain exchanges if cotton and wheat are sent to new low levels in sympathy with the stock break.

ST. ANN'S CLUB TO MEET

Tonight at 7.30 the members of St. Ann's Club will meet at the club house and from there proceed to St. Ann's Church to view the body of the late Rev. Augustine Derrick.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. H. C. Risser, 334 Jefferson avenue, has returned to her home after a successful operation in the Kensington Hospital for Women, in Philadelphia.

WELFARE WORK BY STATE IN BIENNUM COST $30,106,274

HARRISBURG, Oct. 25.—Figures made public by General Edward Martin, State Treasurer, show that Pennsylvania during the present two-year period the State of Pennsylvania has appropriated $30,106,274.59 for maintenance of State-owned and State-aided institutions—far more than any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of New York. During the same period Pennsylvania's appropriations for construction at these institutions totaled $27,550,092.48—hence the grand total for the care and maintenance of physical and mental unfortunates and inmates of correctional institutions is more than $57,000,000.

"This is additional evidence that Pennsylvania not only has the inclination to be of service, but the money with which to pay the bills," is General Martin's comment. "Of the more than $30,000,000 total for maintenance approximately $6,000,000 is required by penal institutions. The huge balance is the State's contribution toward the relief of misery and suffering and it speaks well for the people of Pennsylvania that they are willing to go so deep in their pockets for this purpose."

General Martin makes public the following table showing the legislative appropriations now being expended:

Another Momentous Event in Aeronautical History Is Planned for Oct. 31

TO BE COLORFUL AFFAIR

AKRON, Oct. 25.—Another momentous event in aeronautical history of the United States will take place here October 31st with the impressive and unique "ring laying" ceremony of the ZRS-4, one of the two monstrous airships being constructed for the United States Navy.

In much the same colorful fashion that marks the "keel laying" of a battleship, the Master Ring of the ZRS-4 will be swung into place and a gold rivet driven into what will be the highest part of the giant airship by Ernest Lee Johnke, assistant secretary of the Navy, and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, with P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corp., and Dr. Karl Arnstein, designer, assisting.

Scores of officials, prominent in national, state and industrial affairs will participate in this unique ceremony, which, in all probability, will only be subordinated by the actual launching of the great ship.

Thousands of persons from the state and nation at large are expected to witness this important chapter in the construction of the giant airship. The ship, when completed, will have 6,500,000 cubic foot capacity as compared with 3,700,000 of the Graf Zeppelin, and 2,500,000 of the Long Angeles. It will be 785 feet long and 146 feet high.

The Master Ring into which is to be driven the gold rivet is the first and largest of 20 main rings in the ship. These metal (duralumin) rings make up the zeppelin's skeleton that give the ship its cylindrical form. They are bound together by longitudinal girders extending from nose to tail.

The laying of the Master Ring is the first step in the ship's construction. This first ring for the ZRS-4 is 135 feet in diameter and 19 feet wide.

The "ring laying" ceremony is scheduled to start at 2.00 p. m. in October 31. The huge doors of the new C-Z dock (hangar)—each of which weighs (Continued on Page Six)

MISS CANDY AWARDED JURY VERDICT OF $707.65

Langhorne Real Estate Agent Wins Suit for Commission On Sale

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 25.—After deliberating several hours a jury in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday awarded Miss Laura Hudson Candy, Langhorne real estate broker, a verdict of $707.65 in her suit against William R. Mercer, of Doylestown, agent in the sale of a piece of real estate for his niece, Walurga Von Priesen, of Austria.

Miss Candy claimed real estate commissions on the sale of "Frosterly," the former Chapman homestead that was purchased by Francis C. Mireau, former owner of the historic Fountain Inn, this borough. A Philadelphia real estate agency sold the place to Mireau, but Miss Candy, as the first agent hired by the defendant, put in a claim for commission. The property was sold for $26,500.

In another court room before Judge Hiram H. Keller a jury yesterday awarded George Mellinger and Mrs. Tillie Mellinger, of near Telford, a verdict for $941 in a suit against Fred P. Fisher, Jr., Quakertown cattle dealer. Trial started today in the case of John Jabs, proprietor of the Finland Hotel, against the Lancaster County Mutual Insurance Company, for the collection of an unpaid fire loss claim.

Mario Lanza Pleases With Renditions in Milan, Italy

A noted tenor, Mario Lanza, who formerly made his home in Bristol, recently sang the opera of "Elekir D'Amore A Merate," personifying the Nemerino, with the highest scenic art, at Milan, Italy.

The magnificent quality of Lanza's voice merited the honor of repetition, giving "Una Furtiva Lacrima." Mr. Lanza is a pupil of the well known maestro, Antonietta Benzi De Comis.

FINE MUSICAL PROGRAM AT HULMEVILLE TOMORROW

Many Numbers of Exceptional Merit on Program for Tomorrow Night

TICKETS SELL RAPIDLY

HULMEVILLE, Oct. 25.—Many delightful numbers have been arranged for the musicale which the Epworth League of the Neshaminy M. E. Church will present in the church tomorrow evening.

The musicale program in its entirety is here given: L. r. solo, selected, Miss Adeline E. Roe; piano selection, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," Miss Harriet Cox; violin solo, "A Meditation" (Borowski), Clifton E. Fish, accompanied by Miss Pearl Kramer; piano duet, "Witches' Flight," Miss Marie Hanson and Miss Margaret Perry; vocal trio, Kismet Faust, Sydney Buckman, Edwin Webster.

Instrumental trio, selected, Miss Elizabeth Foster, Charles Foster, William Bailey; piano duet, "Il Corricolo," Misses Dorothy and Winifred Dicken; selection for two instruments, Miss Clara L. Hillek and Miss Elizabeth Foster; reading, "A Feller's Glad to Be a Friend, Out Fishin'," Miss Elma E. Haefner; violin solo, Hungarian Dance No. 5 (Brahms), Clifton E. Fish; Miss Pearl Kramer, accompanist.

"The Florist Shop," a one-act play, will be staged in connection with the musicale. The play is being produced through special arrangement with the Walter H. Baker Company, of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Edie Smith is directing.

The Mrs. Maule, a sympathetic young woman who takes orders at Slovisky's florist shop, is taken by Miss Elizabeth Foster. Slovisky is impersonated by Arthur McCarthy. Ross Buckman is known in the play as Henry, the office boy who cannot quite fathom Maule's sympathetic nature. Miss Dorothy Dicken will take the part of Miss Wells, who for 15 years has been engaged to Mr. Jackson, who is impersonated by Charles Smith. All will be pleased at the way Maule "fixes" and "arranges" things for people with whom she comes in contact.

Expect Hallowe'en Social To Be Successful Affair

The Hallowe'en social to be given by the Catholic Daughters of America on Monday evening in Hibernian Hall promises to be a successful affair.

JURY FINDS FALL GUILTY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Eight men and four women today found former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall guilty of having accepted a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, a California oil magnate, in exchange for a valuable lease on the Naval Oil Reserve. The jury recommended mercy for the aged defendant. The jury deliberated 23 hours and 50 minutes to reach its verdict.

WORD JAUNT TO HAWAII ENJOYED BY CLUB WOMEN

Don Blanding, Poet and Vagabond, Tells of Magic Isles

AT CO. FEDERATION

Colorful Scenes Described, and Poems Read Telling Of the Place

Following in the wake of the vagabond, Don Blanding, many women gathered in Bristol this morning entered into the joys of a delightful ocean trip to sunny Hawaii, drinking to the full the colorful scenes made by the bright hibiscus, the red poinsettias, the many forms of cacti, and green jungles, dotting the many islands set in the turquoise blue of the mid-Pacific.

Blanding, the poet and critic, was the speaker this morning at the Fall meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, held in the Methodist Church, and many unvoiced but solemn resolutions were made ere the word-jaunt was completed to take the trip in realization before many years pass by.

"Every Name's A Ship" is a truth, but was made more true and realistic today to those who followed the poet-vagabond to the mystic isles. The magic names of places the world over were brought into play as Blanding read his poem "Every Name's A Ship," the concluding thought of all being the most magic must be Hawaii.

"Honolulu is a perfectly lovely and wonderful place," the traveler said after painting in splendid manner the ocean voyage to the tropical land, with friends greeting one by placing leis about the neck as the destination is reached. "Hawaii is the place where one half of the world wishes to go, and where the other half which has already been desires to some day return."

"The moon in Hawaii is a yellow and a more golden moon than here, and the night before landing is quietly, yet surely filled with pure magic, and great moments of expectation fill one as the black isles loom in the distance. Native boys, literally smelling the many islands, burst into song, native songs that so well express their feelings. * * * And when you arrive you find the new day all a tropical dawn can be."

The isles were explained as dots of 10,000 greens—greens of the jungles, other greens of the cane fields, the grass greens and all ending in the jade green and turquoise blue of the peaceful ocean.

"Color, color—color all the time is part of the stimulus that makes for happiness in Hawaii all the time," said the one who loves the islands so dearly. "All nationalities of the Pacific are represented in Honolulu, and they are a sight to see in the costumes of their homelands. And all love the flowers, wear them, and make leis or roses, gardenias, sweetheart vine, and others, as a welcome for their friends."

"Leaves From My Greenhouse" was the title of one of the poems read by Mr. Blanding, and he continued by telling that May, June and July are the best months of the flowering season—"but we have flowers there all the year, and Hawaii is ever interesting."

A colorful street in one of the towns was told of, where mothers who are employed at the homes of the more wealthy individuals leave their babies and small tots during the day. Here the older boys and girls care for the smaller ones, and the street is literally spread over with babies. "Baby Street" was a delightful poem which resulted from a walk taken by the poet to the thoroughfare "paved" with tiny human beings. This human-interest poem interested all gathered and described in detail the impressions gathered from the section.

"My Hawaiian Garden" was one of the poems also given to the gathering. "In the islands it is a matter of holding a garden back to keep it from invading the house, not a matter of encouraging it as must be done in these parts." The many unusual flowers were described, purples, reds, pinks, bright blues, and whites predominating, with every intermediate color being remembered. "Day and night alike the gardens are beautiful, and a source of joy and pleasure to natives and visitors," was added.

A word-picture of the blooming of tens of thousands of night blooming cactus was painted by the one whose poems of the islands are a source of interest to all. "The buds become fuller and fuller upon the snake-like cactus vine until such fullness is reached that all know when the night arrives that the event of the months is at hand," was part of the description. "The populace gathers at sunset, in order to be present when the opening occurs. Finally a shuddering opening of the large buds is noticed all along the vine, and in all their glory the thousands upon thousands of blossoms come into being."

Description of a Hawaiian feast proved to be humorous in many respects, the speaker remarking that in Hawaii when invited to a feast one should be on hand at least two days in advance, in order to share all of the (Continued on Page Six)

MELLON WILL STAY

Andrew Mellon is neither under fire from the white house, nor fired. From his chief's own mouth has been learned that his job is his for the keeping until the end of the first Hoover administration. Thus ends another rumor and another inspiration for rumor. The taxpayers are twice grateful.

Secretary Mellon, in his public utterances regarding the nation's business, never for an instant forgets the caution that must be uppermost in the mind of a successful finance officer. As for his official actions, they are hardly less cautious.

If there has not been universal acceptance as fact of the opinion that Mellon is the "greatest treasurer since Hamilton," it is because the nation's first finance officer was put to a more searching test. The problems met and solved by Secretary Mellon were exceeded only by those encountered during the formative years of the union.

The United States treasury is in safe hands. President Hoover can safely place his trust in Mr. Mellon with confidence that he will lend luster and give prestige to his administration. And the people are content.

SCREEN ELOQUENCE

It seemed not long ago that teaching the films to talk promised just another vein of public entertainment, which would be ingeniously worked and developed for the good of all concerned. But it is an industrial law that no revolution in a single matter, Reverberations in other quarters are inevitable, largely unforeseen in the flush of enthusiasm for the novelty that causes them. For example the talkies have not benefited theater musicians, organ manufacturers and the stars of the silent drama who are not equipped to star in the spoken drama.

The present is frankly a period of experiment with the articulate celluloid, and out of it the talking film will achieve its destiny, exactly as the motion pictures themselves won their place beside the legitimate drama in the business of public entertainment.

A more disturbing consequence of this sudden eloquence of the screen is concerned with language. Hollywood products may cease to be popular the world over when their exhibitors in non-English speaking countries install the talkies. Only lovers of grand opera can enjoy listening to words they cannot translate. The basic behavior of the film is universally comprehensible, but the average Britisher will cherish to the last the right to criticize our conversation and despise our diction.

SYNOPSIS

Violet, a chorus girl, and her fiancé, Wally, enlist the aid of Jerry, understudy to the star, in getting the consent of Wally's uncle to their marriage. Jerry allows Uncle Steve to mistake her for Violet, and assumes the role of a scheming woman so that he will be happy to let someone else marry his nephew, Jim Blake, Steve's lawyer, suggests that they take Jerry out to get acquainted before making a final decision, and Jerry's friend, Mabel, comes along. The gold-digging starts, and is brought to a climax two weeks later by a party for Jerry which Steve is to pay for. While Jerry is still trying to shock Steve, Mabel is playfully pouring liquor into Blake's hat.

"You're going a break if your hat is the only thing she ruins," remarked Eleanor.

It was too much for poor Blake. Without a word he got up and left the table, and went into the lounge to light a cigarette to calm his overwrought nerves. He could still hear the laughter inside, Jerry's voice urging her on, and Mabel's exclamations. Delighted to be away from the noise and from Mabel for a few minutes, he chose a comfortable chair, out of view of the dining room, and sat down to enjoy his smoke. He had had too much of the party now, and was quite ready

"Better marry her. It would be cheaper."

A silver shook Blake's body at the mere thought of it.

"Don't talk about it. The very idea gives me chills and fever. I'm scared to death now of a breach of promise suit. That's what she's working for. I can see it in her eyes."

"But, Jim, don't you sort of enjoy all this? Aren't you finding a new type of pleasure in it? Aren't you having—"

"Say, what's the matter with you?" Blake demanded.

"Nothing—only I think I'm getting young again."

"I don't understand."

"I'm living, Jim. Youth—gaiety—fun—laughter. We've been letting ourselves get old, and these youngsters are dancing the kinks out of our knees and out of our hearts. It's the spirit of youth. You ought to welcome it, but I guess you're too much of an old—much and a confirmed bachelor."

There was astonishment as well as incredulity on Blake's face as he listened to Uncle Steve. He knew that he had changed in the last two weeks, but he had not dreamed it had made a different man out of him, and to be sure he was different from the Steve he had taken to Jerry's house on that eventful day two weeks ago.

"We didn't come into this thing on a quest of youth," Blake objected. "We did it for Wally, and to find out something about this Lamar woman. What have we accomplished? Nothing! But we have spent a lot of money and lost a lot of sleep. As for you, you've lost your senses, too."

"But, Jim, it takes time to know a woman intimately. Besides, I like these 'show girls.' I've found out that most of them are nice, respectable, hardworking kids."

"Yes, they've worked you hard enough—and me too," Blake added. "Say, I can't figure out just what's the matter with you. You're not old enough to be in your dotage, so I guess you're just losing your mind."

"It all depends on how you look at it," Lee decided.

"I'm really surprised at you, Steve. You don't seem to care how that Lamar woman takes you in. You're as docile as a lamb."

"Sweetie, oh sweetie!" chirped Mabel's voice from the entrance. "His master's voice," laughed Steve.

"Were you trying to hide from your poor defenseless little darling? Oh, sweetie, what a naughty boy!"

Blake looked at Steve hopelessly. "I'm sunk!"

Set to voice, Steve mumbled that perhaps he was not the only one to be as docile as a little lamb, at which Blake replied, that with a woman like Mabel on his trail, he should be vindicated.

"Oh, sweetie," Mabel called again, starting to walk towards the two men. "You promised you'd be right in, and you didn't come, and your Mabel waited and waited until she couldn't wait any longer."

Blake allowed himself to be led away, making sure not to look back at Steve who he knew was laughing. Steve, at least, could match a few minutes for absent. If only Mabel played around with other men, as Jerry did! If any woman ever had a one track mind, it was Mabel! Blake was convinced of that. She had evidently set her heart on him, the Lord knew why, and she was going to get him if it was the last thing she ever did. On the way into the dining room, she clung to him happily and warned him that if he left her again to those terrible people in there, she would do something desperate.

Blake nodded his assent. It was useless to talk when Mabel was around.

His hat was drying, she informed him and it would be as good as new when they got ready to leave. He mustn't be such a prude about things like hats. They were good for other purposes besides wearing on the head.

As they came out, Jerry was going in to see Uncle Steve. She had been dancing madly with Barney and with Wally alternately, and her latest dance with Barney had resulted in a bet.

"Oh, Uncle Steve," she began as soon as she saw him. "I've just bet Barney a hundred dollars that I can kick a plate out of his hand that high." She lifted her hand above her head to illustrate the height of the kick. "Will you loan me the money?"

"It's a pleasure," Steve replied, taking the money from his pocket and handing it to her.

Jerry took it, wondering if Uncle Steve would ever stop at anything. She had been presumptuous in every request she ever made of him, and he had complied as though the pleasure were really his—that is, after the first week of their acquaintance. There certainly was something that would shock him, but she was having a pretty hard time finding it out.

SINCE THE PASSING OF THE SALOON

Judge Mary M. Bartelme, of the Chicago Juvenile Court, speaking on the benefits of Prohibition in the Mid-West metropolis recently stated:

"In 1913 when I began to hear girls' cases, as many as eight or ten girls were brought to me every week on the charge of being intoxicated."

"I doubt if I now have one in three months. They have almost disappeared."

"Better financial support of children is evident under the dry regime. I do not mean to say that we have no more liquor problems, but a little reflection shows what an enormous problem has been attacked."

"What is important now is to remember what progress has been made by contrasting the present with the days of the saloon."—Christian Science Monitor.—(Adv.)

Mrs. John Ehrlen and daughter, Ruth, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkhart, of New Brunswick, N. J.

During the heavy rain Tuesday afternoon two trucks, one from Philadelphia and one coming from Trenton, skidded at the foot of the hill, west of the borough, one truck going over on its side. Traffic was blocked for a few minutes. A lot of fruit was scattered over the highway.

Twelve Red Ladies of Minerva Council, No. 142, motored to Philadelphia, on Wednesday evening and attended a banquet given by a Philadelphia council at the Golden Dragon Restaurant.

Mrs. E. Twining and Mr. Thomas Poinsett motored to Philadelphia on Wednesday and saw "Evidence" at the Stanton.

EMILIE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Bridge, of Stonehurst, Upper Darby, Mrs. Charles McGurk, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Swangler, of Trenton, and Master Wilbur Jackson, of Leesburg, Va., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Stackhouse.

Miss Eva Stephen and Miss Elsie

Ettinger were Sunday callers of Mrs. David Carter.

James Harris attended the funeral of his uncle, David Henry, of Philadelphia, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Tulmose and family, of Woodbourne, were Saturday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis V. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Blinn, Velma and Amelia Blinn, and James Thompson, of Trenton, were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Blinn.

Mrs. James Harris returned home Friday from the Women's Homeopathic Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mrs. William Oram, of West Philadelphia, has returned to her home after a week's stay at the homes of Mrs. John Webster and Mr. and Mrs. James Harris.

Comley Webster, of Frankford, and Mrs. Webster, Mrs. W. H. Wink and Mrs. W. W. Wink were Sunday callers of Mrs. James Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kramer, of Hatboro, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. T. Elias Praul.

Mrs. Albert R. Randall went to Hatboro on Sunday where she will visit at the Kramer home; also Mrs. Winfield Randall, of Horsham, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hout, of Souderton.

DAY-FAN RADIO

You will be wise in a decision to buy Day-Fan Radio. There are other good sets. A few are probably as fine as Day-Fan. Some good sets are priced a little lower.

But here's a fact: At a modest price, Day-Fan Radio gives you quality, plainly evident in performance, that acknowledges no superior!

A little finer, purer tone quality, a greater degree of sensitivity, sharper selectivity, extra power, reserve volume, quieter operation—these things spell the difference between Day-Fan and average radio. A difference you will always appreciate.

Modernizing the Home Benefits the Entire Family

CHARACTER IMPROVES WITH MODERNIZATION OF HOME

BOTH CHILDREN AND GROWN-UPS GET BENEFIT

Social welfare workers who call on a varied number of homes and come in contact with a wide range of persons assert that they can tell the character of the family they are visiting by the appearance of the home. The curtains on the windows even serve as an index to character.

Even a casual investigation proves that there is more than a grain of truth in this statement.

The character of the family does shine out through the home and the general type of person can usually be told by the house they live in.

The honest, hard-working man may be living in a poorer neighborhood, but his home is spic and span. It is as clean as soap and water will make it, and outside a few flowers and a well-trimmed lawn speak of pride of possession.

Home an Index to Character

The type of house one lives in is often an index to the character of the owner. The man who lives in a drab, depressing, gloomy house is very often a man who is unprogressive and backward in a business way. He is not forging ahead, but rather is slipping or standing still.

On the other hand, the man who lives in a house that is modern in appearance, with a well-cared lawn, is often a man who is progressive and on his toes in a business way.

The environment in which a person lives plays its part in moulding character. If that environment is cheerful, if the house he lives in is smartly up-to-date, if the neighborhood is filled with houses that speak of modern architecture, the influence upon the owner is such that he responds most satisfactorily from a material standpoint.

The Whole Family Benefits

Not only the man of the house, but the whole family benefits by these pleasant surroundings. Environment plays an important part in the life of the child. Their growing characters are swayed by the atmosphere in which they live. The parents have a duty to perform and the keeping of a pleasant, cheerful home is an important factor in moulding the character of their children.

The influence of modernization of the lives of the occupants of a house cannot be estimated by tangible means. It is not possible to state definitely that the remodeling of a house is going to perform a certain part in improving the character and financial standing of the owner.

And yet an influence for good is there. It is silently and persistently working for the betterment of the family.

Community Also Improved

Just as the improvement in the home is influencing the family, so in turn is the modernizing of a house doing a certain amount of good for the community. In the last analysis, a city is but a collection of homes and anything that improves a part is working for the good of the whole.

Modernizing lifts up a city out of its ordinary commonplace position and transforms it into a live progressive community, filled with busy individuals striving for their betterment.

A city filled with attractive, well-designed homes indicates to strangers that the town is a good place to live in, that it is an enterprising, progressive community, that its citizens are a busy, hustling collection of individuals.

Modernizing plays a definite part not only in moulding the characters of the home owner and his family, but also in boosting the community in which the owner lives.

USE REFRIGERATOR THE YEAR ROUND

Food to be kept in good condition must be maintained in a temperature of 50 degrees or lower. Scientists have proved that food, when allowed to remain in a temperature above that figure, decays quickly and bacteria multiply 400 times more rapidly than when kept in a temperature below 50 degrees which is the danger line of food deterioration.

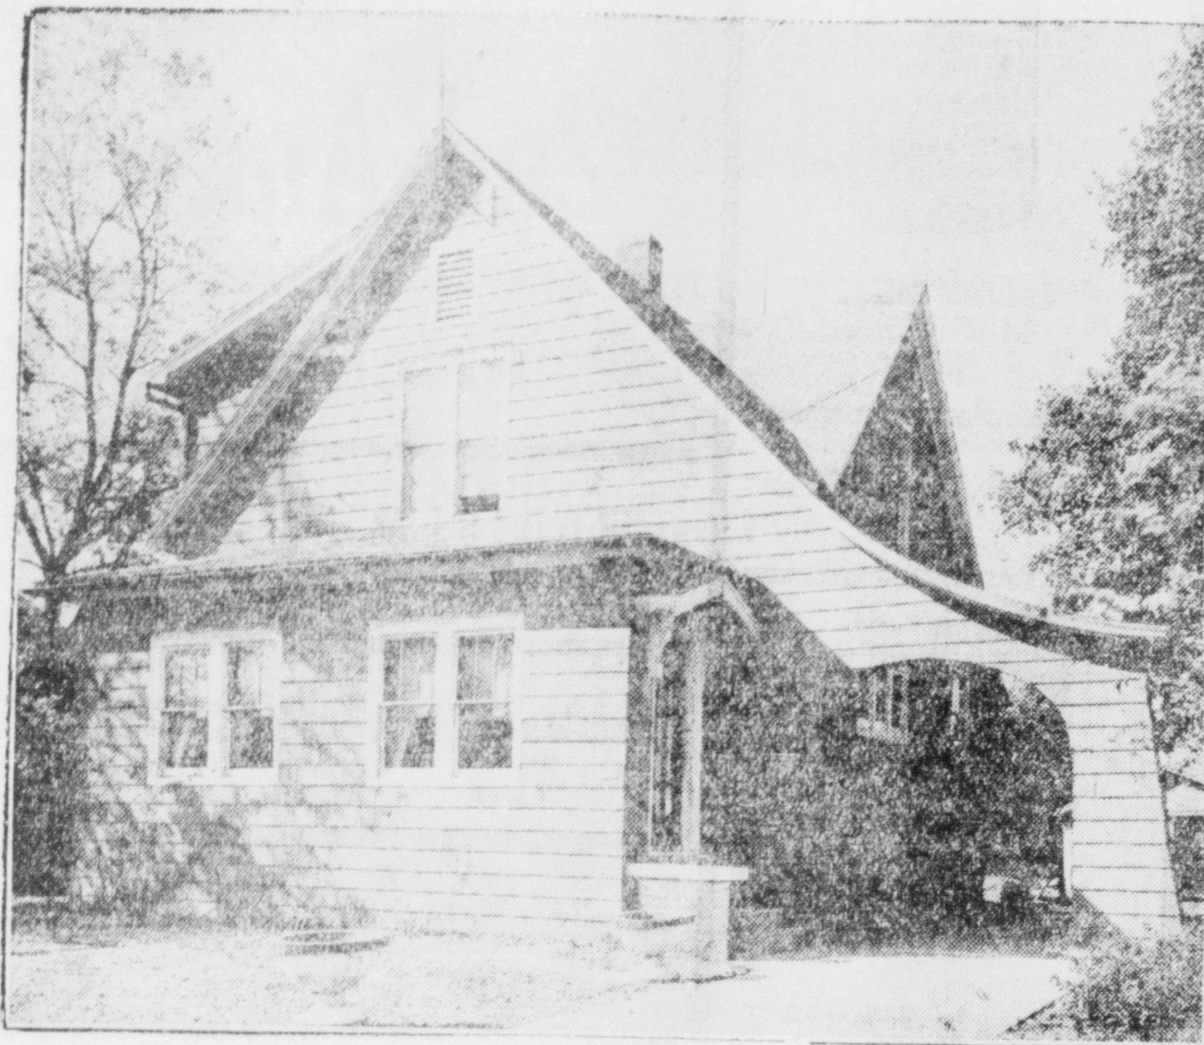

Proper refrigeration will maintain food in good condition while it is waiting to be used.

Yet strange as it may seem throughout the United States only 34.6 per cent of homes are equipped with refrigerators of any kind. Two thirds of the homes in the United States have no adequate form of refrigeration.

New Sash Lights Dining Room

The old side door leading off the dining room has been enclosed, the small porch and overhead shelter eliminated, and in its stead a bay of three windows has been placed in the side wall to aid in lighting this important room. The dining room should always be well lighted as it is important that the meals of the family be eaten under the best of conditions. Environment plays an important part in dietetics and a well lighted dining room does its part toward promoting the health and well-being of the family.

Contrast the New With the Old

Sweeping exterior lines add charm to this home. Once it was the unlovely house pictured at the right. Here again modernization proves its case.

AWNINGS ALSO HAVE DECORATIVE VALUE

During the hot days of summer the use of awnings over the windows on the sunny side of the house enable the occupants of the house to keep more comfortable. Windows may be kept open to allow the cooling breezes to enter the rooms. Shades do not have to be lowered as the burning rays of the sun are prevented from fading the rugs, upholstery, wall paper or window draperies.

Utility has long been the prime consideration when awnings are discussed. Of late however the use of awnings as a distinct method of exterior decoration is growing in favor. Newer types of awnings have been devised that add a touch of the unique to the appearance of the house.

Because of their decorative values, the awnings selected must be chosen with the general design and color scheme of the building in mind. The awning becomes an integral part of the building like the roof or the window trim. It must blend in to aid in carrying out the general decorative design.

The window off the kitchen has been changed, a new sash and trim being used to conform to the design of the dining room windows.

ONCE ORDINARY HOUSE IS NOW A MOST DELIGHTFUL HOME

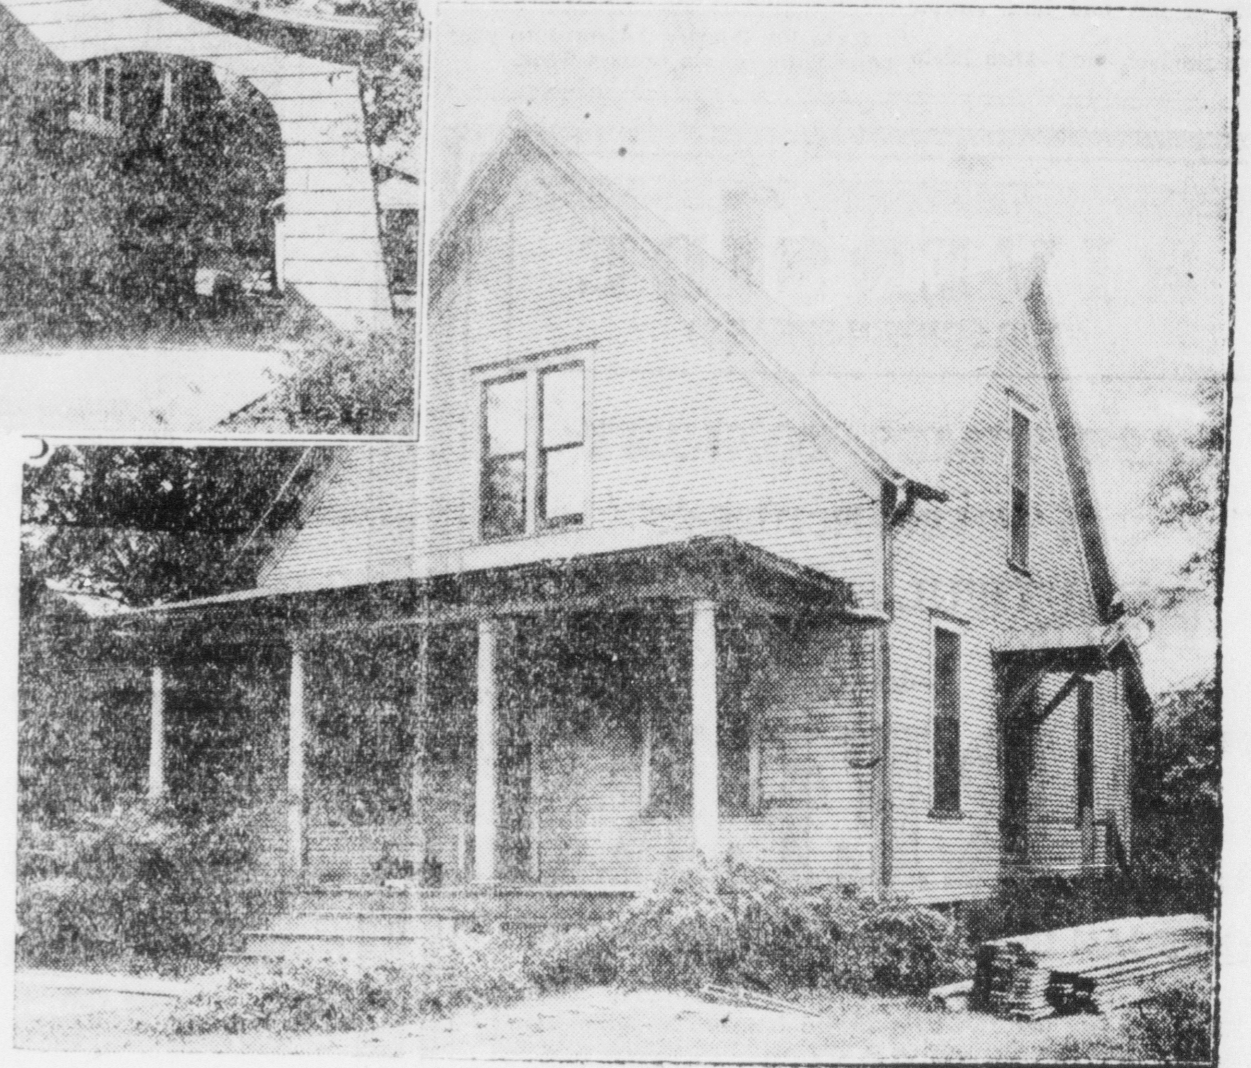

The casual passer-by would never suspect that the home to the left was built years ago when the Spanish-American War was a live topic of conversation. Its sweeping roof lines, pleasing arch over the garage, drive and quaint little stoop, all speak of modern architecture.

Yet this house was once the commonplace dwelling illustrated below. These before and after pictures present forcefully the advantages of modernization in making the old home up-to-date.

Once an ordinary house, the kind found on any street in a residential neighborhood; now a delightful home, unusual in its irregular lines and odd architectural touches. That's the story of this pleasant home.

The modernization of this house not only changed the exterior lines of the dwelling to such an extent that the house becomes almost unrecognizable, but when so doing an extra room has been added by enclosing the old open front porch.

Across the front now appears a charming sun room lighted by two bays of windows. The main entrance to the house lies off this room. A narrow stoop—practically a step—leads down to the garage driveway which also serves as the walk leading to the public sidewalk. Such an arrangement as this saves the expense of a formal concrete walk and gives an unconventional touch which is in keeping with the atmosphere of the dwelling. A tiny shelter having a pitch roof, relieves the doorway of its bare look.

OPINION seems to be unanimous that a fresh new type of motor car has arrived—a new generation—bringing new grace and smartness to the highways of the world. And it is true. Both in styling and performance, the new 1930 Nash "400s" are decidedly unusual, unusually fine. The three new motors which power these newest Nash cars are truly amazing in their smoothness, their quietness and their eager, dynamic spirit. A list of the 1930 Nash "400" features reveals countless other structural and performance advancements now introduced to motoring by these surpassing motor cars. They were built for leadership, and, in the opinion of motorists who have seen or driven them, leadership is theirs!

pleasure and active interest. Mangos, grapefruit, oranges, bananas and all manner of fruit are placed upon long mats upon the ground at the edge of the beach. The pig proves to be the king of these feasts in the islands, and this after being made ready for the fire is placed in a pit, and covered over with leaves. About the pig are put lobsters, fish, yams, and other goodies, all the time those gathered becoming hungrier as the appetizing aromas float about. "The cream of the coconut is used in cooking of almost everything there," the group was told. A Hawaiian invites not only a few friends but the whole neighborhood, and about the neck of each guest is a garland of flowers placed.

The first session of the day was also given over to the transaction of business. Mrs. Ferdinand Sommer, president of the Federation, presiding. The invocation was made by the Rev. George F. Hess, pastor of the Bristol M. E. Church, and the address of welcome by Mrs. Frank Lehman, president of the Bristol Travel Club, was responded to by Mrs. Sommer. A vocal solo was given by Miss Grace Hartzell.

RUMMAGE SALE

A rummage sale is being conducted at the parish house of St. James' Church, Wood and Walnut street, and will continue for today and tomorrow. The patronage of the public is earnestly solicited.

DIES IN COUNTY HOME

Charles B. Tarpy, an old resident of Bristol, died on Sunday last, at the County Home, and is to be buried today from the undertaking parlors of George W. Dickes & Sons, Philadelphia. Interment will be made in North Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Miss Margaret Waters, of Atlantic City, N. J., who has been spending two weeks with the Misses Fallon, of Corson street, has returned to her home.

Entertains Friends in Honor Of Her Fourteenth Birthday

Miss Anna Johnson, of Swain street, celebrated her fourteenth birthday anniversary last evening at her home by entertaining a few of her friends. A very pleasant evening was spent playing games, singing and dancing, and at a late hour the guests were invited to the dining room where refreshments were served.

The dining room was attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors, orange and black crepe paper streamers, which were gracefully draped from the four corners to the center of the room and over the dome light. Favors were orange and black baskets and snappers, and a large birthday cake with candles formed the centerpiece on the table.

Those who enjoyed the party were: Veronica McGlynn, Marion Dugan, Rita and Katharine McGinley, Jane Walters, Gertrude Snyder, Margaret Nealis, Paul Singer, Jack McGinley, Francis Cummings, James Dugan and John Ritter. Anna received many pretty birthday gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Petrick, of Jackson street, have had as their guest for two weeks, Charles Smith, of Guttenberg.

THE HOME TOWNERS

BY JOHN LEARY PELTRET
FROM WARNER BROS. 'ALL TALKING' VITAPHONE PICTURE
...BASED ON THE COMEDY BY GEORGE M. COHAN...

SYNOPSIS—Arnold invites Bancroft to be best man and bring his wife. Bancroft becomes suspicious of motives of romance and family. Says so and causes riot. Results in breaking engagement. Arnold and the home towners go out to entertain themselves.

CHAPTER IX

DURING the time that Arnold and the Bancrofts are trying to take their minds off the mess by going to the theatre, Beth's family persuade her to go to a concert for the same purpose. She entrusts Wally with her wedding gift, a valuable bracelet, to be returned to Arnold. Wally puts Roberts on his train and goes to Arnold's. They are out. Wally says that he will wait for Arnold.

THEN Wally learns that the Bancrofts are staying there. Wally does not want to meet them. He telephones his sister and decides to give the jewel case to the butler for Arnold. Just as he starts to go the others return. Wally tells Arnold he has left a package for him and the butler will deliver it. Bancroft asks Wally to let him explain and clear up the situation.

AS a result of this plea Wally tells Bancroft just what he thinks of him. He says he is narrow-minded, bigoted and a dangerous man who, like most home town folks, think the city fellows a lot of thieves, slickers, robbers, and that Bancroft will go back and boast to the gang how he routed the city gold-diggers. This off his chest Wally goes on his way.

AS Wally pulls his rave Bancroft looks at him pathetically. When the door slams, Arnold and Mrs. Bancroft go to him and try to comfort him. Bancroft says Wally was right. Mrs. Bancroft says she has heard enough for one night; has to get up early in the morning; will leave her pig-headed husband, and go to bed, promising to say a prayer for them all at church next day.

TRUCK SEAT AFIRE

A seat on a truck of the National Freight & Delivery Company caught fire this morning while in the local yards of the company. The Consolidated Fire Department was summoned but the blaze was extinguished by hand extinguishers.

Frank Weissblatt Plans To Change Store Location

Frank Weissblatt, who for many years conducted a clothing store on Jefferson avenue, announces that he will move his place of business within the near future. Mr. Weissblatt says that he is undecided as to his future plans. He will move, however, from his present location within the next few weeks.

Mr. Weissblatt has been located on Jefferson avenue since 1906 and is the oldest up-town clothing store. He started in business 23 years ago at 505 Jefferson avenue, two blocks below his present place of business.

Through honest and faithful business dealings Mr. Weissblatt enjoyed a rapid business growth and his store expanded from a notion store to a clothing business. Today he has a well stocked establishment.

Scientist Says He Can Change a Man's Race

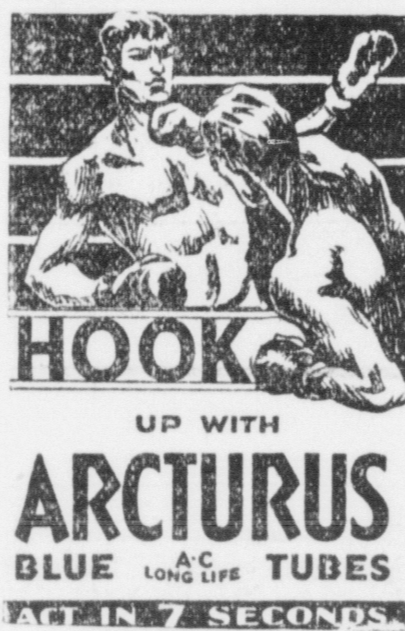

Japan, through the researches of Dr. Yusaburo Nogushi, shown above, has added another miracle to modern science. Dr. Nogushi, just back from studies in the jungles of Brazil, says he has found a method to change the color of various races, and to make children tall or short.

Miss Margaret Spangler, of West Philadelphia, passed Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Spangler, of 346 Jefferson avenue.

WARNING TO HUNTERS

By The Stroller
Hunters recently returning from a hunting expedition into Canada tell of the Virgin forests where the undergrowth is knee deep and where vegetation has not been disturbed for years. Here is a sign they say they saw posted as a warning against forest fires:
"This is God's country; don't start a fire and make it look like H—"
